Your Energy, Your Choice

As a customer of Rockland Electric Company, you have the right to shop for and purchase electricity from a Third Party Supplier (TPS). If TPS marketing representatives knock on your door or call you, here are some helpful questions to ask before entering a contract:

- What is the price of the electricity to be supplied?
- Is the price fixed for the duration of the contract? If so, for how long?
- If the price changes each month, how is the price calculated?
- Does the contract automatically renew?
- How may it be cancelled without penalty?
- If any savings are guaranteed by the TPS, what are the conditions that must be met for the TPS to honor the guarantee?
- Are there any fees, such as late payment charges, early termination fees or disconnect fees and how would they be calculated?
